

THEARTBLOG

An insider's view of the UAE's art scene

Edited by Anna Seaman

Hussein Madi, Untitled, watercolor and ink on paper, 32x47cm. Courtesy of Artscoops

Get your hands on some masterpieces in online auction

Anna Seaman | October 20, 2016

Don't miss the Middle East Modern and Contemporary Sale on the art auction website, artscoops.com.

Featuring some stunning pieces including a pastel on paper piece by Lebanese master Samia Halaby and an interesting oilstick on canvas by Marwan Sahmarani, there is a condensed but well curated selection of really lovely works.

Personal highlights would be the ink on canvas from Syrian artist Fadi Yazigi and a lovely watercolor and ink on paper by another Lebanese artist Hussein Madi.

Bidding is open now and the sale ends on Tuesday. For more information and to place a bid visit www.artscoops.com

Related

- Artscoops to hold first live auction
- Iranian art showcased in online auction
- Art collecting made easy
- Dubai's Lumas Gallery wants to change the way people think about buying art

Leave a reply

Comment

Log in to add a comment

Most Popular Latest

Art Hub opens in Dubai

Get your hands on some masterpieces in online auction

eL Seed begins work on painting a wall in Dubai

UAE Pavilion curator to present a series of talks

Venice Architecture Biennale: Home Economics

More from Art

Sheikha Hoor climbs Art Review's Power 100 list

Hammad Nasar on curating the UAE Pavilion at the Venice Biennale

Christie's and Sotheby's make a bid to boost Middle East art

Tweets by @LifeNationalUAE

Highlights of the upcoming Emirates Airline Festival of Literature 2017 bit.ly/2dq1OQf @EmiratesLitFest

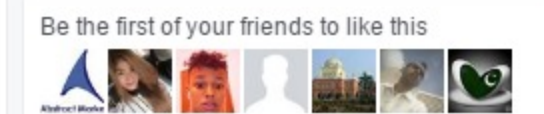

Highlights of the upcoming Emirates Ai... Best-selling British author Jeffrey Archer...

Embed View on Twitter

Like Page Share

The National 6 mins

"I was aware that I am handsome but you can't do anything when you are poor," said 18-year-old Arshad Khan, a tea seller who has sparked a heated debate on class.

