Pouf is a small piece of furniture for seating. It can be made of different materials (wood, polyethylene, metal ...).

Although small this item is the inspiration for many designers.

Poufs are designed for casual, relaxed seating for indoor and outdoor use. They can be used to create open-air conversation islands or to extend sofas and armchairs. Thanks to its dimensions they are suitable for the easy change of configuration elements in space and adapt to current needs.

They are affordable in different styles sophisticated or classic and help the user to bring comfortable and stylish seating arrangements.

For the outside use, the upholstery cover must be appropriate. It is desirable that the cover is removable and changeable. The fabric needs to be stain-resistant, breathable, resistant to UV rays and water-repellent.

Sometimes poufs are multifunctional can be used also as side tables, footrest or have lighting incorporated.

Users can apply this piece of furniture on a terrace, balcony and pool area, Spa, on the beach and many other areas.

Metal in a new form

Re-Trouvè Pouf designed by Patricia Urquiola for EMU

The EMU Re-Trouvè Series by Patricia Urquiola is a bold reinterpretation of nostalgic wire furniture: dynamically patterned curves and airy volumes combined with modern production. Pouf can be used with or without top cushion, as a stool or a side table.

MINT

Fancy a new look for spring that's got the minty-fresh factor? Spotted in silky finishes at Sies Marjan and sashaying down the runway on romantic ruffles at Preen, mint green is the colour du jour for the fashion pack this season. For cool interiors, Designers Guild has traded in statement florals for pastel-coloured geometrics on its Dufrene wallpaper. The Lyze armchair by Italian outdoor furniture brand Emu channels tennis court chic and we're loving the optical illusion that is Puik's Iso rug. All done with the decorating? Then it's time to treat yourself to a tasty mojito - and don't hold back on the mint!
