

Mt. Shasta Library Recipient of New Zealand Spiritual Teachings

The Foundation for Higher Learning, a New Zealand-based spiritual school, has just published a master work on human consciousness and spiritual evolution, and Timoth McGarry, a local member of the school, has recently donated a copy to the Mt. Shasta Library.

Entitled Heavens and Hells of the Mind, the 4-volume, 2,000+ page treatise recently won the Ashton Wylie national book award in New Zealand for its contribution to human spiritual evolution. Imre Vallyon, the author of the books, observes that the work “is a text book for the 21st century spiritual seeker.”

McGarry adds, “These teachings expand upon the body of spiritual wisdom in the tradition of such notable authors as Alice Bailey and Madame Blavatsky. They are unique and valuable because they bring to light esoteric and secret teachings from many spiritual traditions using a new and fresh approach.”

The book set is available at the Mt. Shasta City Library and at the Rogue Valley Metaphysical Library in Ashland. It is also available for purchase at Soul Connections in Mt. Shasta and on Amazon.com.

For further information, see the school’s website, www.soundinglight.com, or contact Timoth at timothmcg@snowcrest.net.